

or if it isn't. However, I ask you, why the hurry to impeach, condemn or censure when we have not completed charge number six and charge number eight. Charge number six says: Activities of the Attorney General, an office of the Attorney General in examining and monitoring the activities of Commonwealth, other regulated institutions, the Nebraska Depository Institution Guarantee Corporation, corporations which have members of the Nebraska Depository Institution Corporations and the directors, employees and agents of each. Now that is all in charge number six. But we didn't do the rest. No, we focused in on the Attorney General, Paul Douglas. Number eight, involvement of all past and present public official officeholders and public employees with respect to transactions between themselves and Commonwealth, its directors, employees and agents and between themselves and enterprises controlled by the directors, enterprises controlled by the directors, employees or agents of Commonwealth. We have not done that either. We didn't do the first five either. We took number six first. So I ask you, fellow senators, to consider that the issue does not have to be settled today as all of the investigation is not complete. We have not completed our work. We have not completed it. We have focused in on one person and one issue. And I say to you, this is not correct and this is not proper. Mr. Domina, one of the leaders in all of this, it says, although Mr. Domina and Mr. Miller did not make specific allegations of misconduct against Attorney General Paul Douglas. They did not make specific allegations. The two men who were assigned to do this didn't make specific allegations. So I say to you, let's stop and think what we are doing. We are talking more than an issue. We are talking a person that is going to be tried to make into an issue. You are going to get a lot of legal talk today but I am going to close by saying that sometimes expediency and justice frequently are not even on speaking terms. Thank you, Mr. President. I withdraw my motion to IPP.

PRESIDENT: Thank you. According to procedure then the Chair will recognize Senator Beutler for the discussion of Section 1 of resolution 278. Senator Beutler.
